TESTIMONY OF INFORMERS. Much time was consumed in the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday in a discussion of the propricty of a question propounded to John F. Patter on to test his competency as a juror to try Thomas B. Kerr for alleged complicity in the purchase of Aldermen's votes for the Broadway Railroad franchise. Justice Patterson listened with more or less patience to the arguments of District-Attorney Fellows and Congressman W. Bourke Cockran, but occasionally gave evidence of the weariness with which all present followed the long-drawnout and almost profitless proceedings. The question was that put to the juror by Colonel Fellows at the close of the preceding day's session: "Will you, if you enter the box as a juror, enter it with a predetermination not to believe the testimony of an informer unless it is corroborated?"

In the Sharp case Justice Barrett ruled that such a juror would be an unfriendly one to the people and, on this account, an incompetent juror, notwithstanding that a juror is not required to convict on the uncorroborated testimony of an informer or accomplice. Mr. Cockran maintained that this ruling was wrong, declaring that any man who would go on the stand and swear that he could believe the uncorroborated testimony of an informer and a perjurer would be an unfit man to sit in the jury box.

Colonel Fellows replied to the argument of Mr.

Cockran that a witness should be put on the stand placarded with the legend that he was not to be believed was an absurdity. The law placed the witness on the stand, intending that his evidence should be believed if the jury was satisfied of its truth. Corroboration, however, was required. Justice Barrett's decision had been sustained by the Court of Appeals, and was good law. Ex. Judge Davis was about to reply, but Justice Patterson said he could only hear one lawyer on each side. The discussion was continued at length by Mr. Cockran and the District Attorney. Justice Patterson decided that the question objected to was perfectly proper, in order that the court might be able to determine as to the condition of a proposed juror's mind. He sustained the challenge in the present case, as the proposed juror had substantially stated that he would disregard the direction of the court.

After a large number of jurors had been examined and rejected. John T. Welch, superintendent of the Hudson River Ice Company, who declared that his mind was free from prejudice, was permitted to enter the box as the sixth juror. For two hours more the examinations of possible jurors went on without resulting in the selection of another. The case was then adjourned until 10 a. m. to-day. stand placarded with the legend that he was not

H. L. DANIELS'S SUSPENSION. There has been a good deal of sympathy expressed with Henry L. Daniels, who was suppended from membership privileges in the Produce Exchange a few days ago, and yesterday the Board of Managers granted him the privileges of the floor for fifteen lays. Mr. Daniels's suspension was the result of a complaint of R. H. Turle, who claimed $673 as due him upon a transaction nearly four years old. Mr. Daniels sold two loads of wheat for Mr. Turie, and on the following day he closed one load out at a profit of $130. Two days later Mr. Daniels was taken seriously ill and was sent home delirious, in which condition he remained for two weeks. In the meanwhile the contract was allowed to ran on, the margin was absorbed, and when the contract was closed out under the rule the account against the sick man was as above. Mr. Daniels urgod that Mr. Turle should have closed out the contract when he himself was taken sick.

A BUSY DAY AT CASTLE GARDEN.

Castle Garden had a crowded house yesterday, so crowded that two of the steamers which arrived, with total of 1,960 passengers, had to keep them on board. It was the largest day's business since May 11, 1867, and the third largest in the history of immigration so far as numbers may be considered. The total arrivals were 7,010, and the total number whose records were taken at Castle Garden was 5,050. These came as follows: Rhaetta, from Hamburg, 1,298; Gallia, from Liverpool, 1.278; Lessing, from Hamburg, 916; Britannic, from Liverpool, 911; Polaria, from Hamburg, 815; Lahn, from Bremen, 758; Eutella, frem Naples 662, and Rottendam, from Rotterdam, 377. On May 11, 1887, 9,051 immigrants were landed and on May 19, 1873, 7,052.

READY FOR ANOTHER SIX DAYS WALK.

The preliminary arrangements for the six-daya' go-as-you-please race, which will be held at Madison Square Gar-den, from May 5 to May 12, are nearly complete. From the looks of the Garden, it is evident that the coming walk will be an improvement on Frank Hall's February affair. There is more method in everything. The booths, forty in number, will be rooted with canvas, and look as if they might be comfortable. The scorers and reporters will have much better quarters, and everything smacks of jus-tice, if not generosity. The contest is limited to forty competitors and $2,000 in prizes is offered in addition to the gate receipts: $1.000 will be given to the first competitor breaking the six-days' record, $500 to the second and $250 Among the entries are George Littlewood, England:

Daniel Herty, Boston; George Cartright, England; Peter Panchot, the Buffalo post-boy; John Hughes, "Gus." Guerrero, the "Greaser"; Peter Golden, Boston; E. C. Moore, Philadelphia; "Sam." Day, England; Robert Vint, George Connors, Archibald Sinclair, Peter Hegelman, An-ton Strokel, Norman Taylor, Frank Hart, Sergeant Kraper, of the 9th Regiment, and James Saunders, of the Brooklyn Athletic Association.

The officers of the race are: William O'Brien, "Sport ing Times," manager: William Corney, assistant manager: James C. Kennedy, "Sporting Times," referee; Arnold Pierce, "Evening Sun," and James McDonough, "The Star," judges: Samuel C. Austin and Edward Plummer, scorers. One-half the gate receipts are to be divided among the first eight to exceed 525 miles, proportionately.

SCHOOLBOYS GIVE AN EXHIBITION DRILL. The companies of the military corps of the Bernard School, Harlem, gave an exhibition drill in West End Hall yesterday. The battalion, under command of Colonel C. C. Boynton, Captains A. C. Hazen, jr., W. C. Rhoades and T. C. Buck, fr., was put through all of the evolutions, including a dress parade and review, and the manual known in Unton's tactics, which were so well done that the West Point cade is might have looked on with envy. The battalion was reviewed by William L. Hazen. A competitive drill between separate companies followed, and Captain Rheades's company was awarded the stand of colors for excellence and promptness in the formations, alignments and manual of arms. The school colors and augments and manual of arms. The school colors and National standard were presented by J. W. French. MR. WELLINGTON UPHOLDS HIS PLAN. C. C. Martin, chief engineer and superintendent of the New-York and Brooklyn Bridge, has written a letter to James Howell, president of the Board of Trustees, in-closing an estimate, prepared by G. Leverich, civil engineer, of the cost of developing the maximum traffic ca-pacity of the Bridge Railway in accordance with the Wellington plan. He places the total at $6,565,850. Mr. Wellington has sent a letter to each of the trustees, which he says that no question of the cost of lands quired is involved, but only one as to the amount needed. He says further: "The claim in the estimate was swelled by charges aggregating $3,889,290, for which there was no ground whatever, leaving only $1.887,980 as the possible amount, even when the land really needed was estimated as two and one-half times the assessed valuation-s higher ratio than was taken for the larger estimate, or than is at all reasonable."

McDonnell, chancellor; and the Rev. John Edwards, paster of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The Rev. Dr. John Loughran, of St. Stephen's, and the Rev. William H. High mass was offered up by the Rev. Michael J. Lavelle, assisted by the Rev. W. J. Daly, as deacen; the Rev. M. J. Mulhern, sub-deacen; and the Rev. James W. Kelly, master of ceremonies.
